comptortion manual

Characteristic of all Tech 21 products, the CompTortion is multifunctional, exceptionally versatile, and will not depersonalize your guitar tone. You can use either the compression or distortion separately, or you can, of course, mix the two together. The CompTortion can also be used for just a clean boost. Controls include "Comp", "Tortion", Tone and Level. TECH 21 EMAIL NEWS SIGNUP Email SIGN ME UP. DC Power Supply Specifications 9V DC regulated or unregulated, 100mA minimum; 2.1mm female plug, center negative. No other single pedal offers this kind of control over such a range of sounds from totally clean to light distortion to smooth and creamy overdrive, and from zero compression to completely squashed. The CompTortion is multifunctional and exceptionally versatile. Musically voiced to complement each other, the effects are independently adjustable so you can determine the formula that best suits your particular taste. You have the option of using the compression by itself or just the distortion alone. And, of course, you can mix the two together. You can also use the CompTortion solely for a clean boost, up to 12dB. Compression and distortion in the same signal chain are inherently very noisy. <https://commercialwoodworkingmassnh.com/userfiles/7za-manual.xml>

- tech 21 comptortion manual, comptortion manual.

Even if you had "the best" compressor hooked up with "the best" distortion unit, there would be so much noise you wouldn't be able to use them without an outboard noise gate. Having specifically designed these two effects into one unit, noise reduction was engineered directly into the circuitry. Characteristic of all Tech 21 products, the CompTortion will not depersonalize your guitar tone. It is highly interactive with your individual playing style, your individual musical style, and your instrument's individual tonality. It is our hope that the CompTortion will be a useful tool for stimulating your creativity and, ultimately, providing the inspiration to play your best. APPLICATIONS The CompTortion is designed for use with any amp tube or solid state, vintage or modern. You can achieve the same results using the CompTortion with any of our highly acclaimed SansAmp™ models of Tube Amplifier Emulators, as there is no speaker simulation within the CompTortion's circuitry. The 100% analog technology can also add warmth and dimension to any digital signal processor. Simply plug your guitar into the CompTortion, and plug the CompTortion into the input of your amp or the input of a SansAmp. GUIDE TO CONTROLS COMP Compression controls the amount of compression and sustain without any distortion. Ranges from minimum at 11 to maximum at 151. TORTION Distortion controls the amount of distortion and sustain without any compression. At minimum, setting is completely clean. TONE is a traditional passive shelving tone control. LEVEL adjusts the output level without altering any tonal characteristics. Outside interference can trigger the noise gate to open, causing unwanted background noise to be present particularly with single coil pickups. Having both Comp and Tortion set at maximum at the same time may cause microphonic feedback in live performances and excess noise in recording applications. <http://findacommodity.com/upload/7za-manual-page.xml>

When using one at maximum, we recommend using the other sparingly. The LED will fade as the battery runs low. USING THE COMPTORTION WITH OTHER EFFECTS For best results, plug your guitar directly into the Comptortion. This will preserve the interactive nature of the unit. Any other folks having success using these plugins. OR should I buy Sans Amp or Amp Farm. Second question is the preferred way of doing this simply routing all the drums to an aux and inserting the plug in there. In general, does it seem to sound better to route all the drums or are there any that you leave out room overhead. I know there is no magic answer, but some general tips would really be appreciated, since my initial experimentation was disappointing I've mixed a lot of hip hop and pop, but this is my first real band with live drums. I really want to kick ass with this and appreciate any insight. Another obstacle is that I am mixing on a Mix rig, so I will have to deal with nudging to account for latency. Any tips there are appreciated as well. Sounds great, it's got compression and drive. Sounds great and gives the kit some nice depth of field. Chymer My first instinct, when distorting drums, is sending to an ADL 1500 and blister the meters. Try the Sans Amp, it's pretty effortless. Drums There's really no correct way to add distortion to something. Best of luck. I remember going thru them all and didn't like any.

I find the user interface to be confusing. I feel like a real newby asking these questions and I'm not. Just not a lot of experience with live drums. Thanks for all the suggestions! I'd suggest send it out to the analog domain and creating the distortion there. Another possibility would be to use a peak limiter set with far too low a threshold. Or the obvious choices of Sans Amp etc. I guess I just need to spend more time with it. Then I would not have to worry about latency!! Thanks for the suggestion, Mike, I will try that tomorrow. I guess I just need to spend more time with it. Blend them in the track, and wallah. No preset. Just listen and adjust. I generally use this as a mult fed by kick snare and sometimes OH. IZOtope Vinyl can be a nice flavour on kit elements, especially when driven with the wear function doing a little work. All the best! It helps to gate this mess, too. Put the distortion on parallel clean tracks. Amplitube is not bad, but my favorite distortion is reamping through a practice amp, pignose, or something like that. I got it from someone on this site, so just willing to keep it in the family really. I will consider cash offers too, but I'm really looking to trade. I'm in Chatham, Kent, btw. I may be able to get a sound clip too within the next week or so, so PM me with any enquiries. Cheers, Theo. If it is, it was in good nick when I sold it, and worked perfectly. Sounds especially awesome with passive jazz type instruments, but good sounds can be found with any instrument!! Good luck with the sale mate Sorry for the confusion Had some interest but no followthrough yet, so keep those trade offers coming in. If a cash offer hits the right ball park I will also be happy to part with this miniature beastie.

Here's a picture although not of mine, it's in as new condition but won't come with a box or manual because I didn't get either; I'll pack it well though! Someone please take this off my hands. In order to help, I've decided on a price. Offers still welcome as I'd rather this went to someone on here than anyone slightly more anonymous. I didn't know it had been discontinued. There's a bonus for any prospective buyers. If I can only resist temptation to hold onto this for posterity.
